Indian Exiles In Germany: On Way Home Friday
LONDON, Wednesday.
It is learned here today that four Indians, who worked in Germany during the war, will be leaving for India in the liner 'Strathmore' on Friday. They are: Brijlal Mukerjee who was Subhas Chandra Bose's chief emissary to Hitler, Dr. Kudus Faruqi and Habibur Rahman who were engaged in Germany in radio propaganda, and Ajit Singh. Ajit Singh was exiled from India in 1907 on charges of inciting Indian troops to mutiny. The others have been away from India for ten years. Singh established himself in Italy at the end of the war and the others were discovered in Berlin. They have all been in the British jail in Berlin until recently. Indians in London gave them a warm welcome on their arrival yesterday and later at a reception. Dr. Faruqi, who is accompanied by his German wife and two children, said that the repatriation of Indians who worked for Bose was due to the pressure on the Allies by the Indian Interim Government.—GLOBE.

PLIGHT OF GERMAN SCHOOL CHILDREN
HAMBURG, Thursday.—Seventy-four per cent of the more than 2,000 German school children over 12 years old in Hamburg District have no serviceable shoes, according to British Nutritional Survey Teams carrying out investigations here. In a report to Mr. Vaughan Berry, the Regional Commissioner, the investigators say that it is impossible to assess whether the basic ration of 1,730 calories per day for children between six and nine years and 1,930 calories for children between ten and 16 years was being fully honoured, the basic ration, however, was adequate to meet the minimum requirements of six and nine year olds, 96 per cent of whom get free-coupon school meals, the report added.—Reuter.

Govt. Urged To Intensify Adult Education Drive
TRIVANDRUM, Wednesday.
THE All-India Adult Education Conference which was held here in conjunction with the All-India Educational Conference resolved that in view of democratic constitution that is being evolved for India and the immediate need for educating illiterate masses in full content of citizenship and the imperative need to develop in them ability to think, appraise and judge for themselves, educational authorities in India should discharge their primary responsibility in this matter by immediately formulating comprehensive schemes of adult education and working them out with devotion so that prevalent illiteracy and ignorance might be liquidated in as short a time as possible. The Conference opined that the importance, vastness and urgency of the problem of adult education in India demand that any comprehensive scheme of adult education in all its aspects could be effectively worked only by sufficient number of trained and devoted full-time workers in different linguistic areas under the guidance and direction of a central institute for adult education. Therefore it urged upon the Governments of all provinces, States and centrally administered areas to institute an adult education section as an important part of their Education Departments. It also urged provinces and States to start and maintain a rural library service in their areas so as to cover the whole area in an adequate manner. It urged the Central and Provincial Governments 'inter alia' to establish a department of physical education and recreation to cater to the physical and recreational needs of students and the public. VOCATIONAL EDUCATION In the Vocational Education Section, the Conference was of the opinion that full use should be made of modern psychological tests adapted to Indian conditions for organised vocational education and particularly for selections of boys and girls for training in specific vocations. The Conference was of the opinion that restrictions imposed on the admission to university courses of study should not be applied without adequate reference to the physical and mental development of the candidates. Under Women's Education, the Conference expressed the view that girls should be trained at the school in the art of self-defence so as to enable them to protect themselves. The Conference dealt exhaustively with matters under military studies, recreation, health and physical education. It was of the opinion in particular that boys and girls should be given preparatory military training and formed into union cadet corps and as a first measure archery, fencing, ju-jutsu, stick or lathi, play should be taught to both boys and girls in high schools. It accorded its full support to the decision taken by the Amraoti conference of the All-India Physical Education under the presidency of Mr. Sarat Chandra Bose which met in October 1946 with regard to the formation of a general body known as the National Association of Physical Education of India and of national council to prepare the constitution and chalk out the policies and programme of the said Association.—API.

CONFERENCE CONCLUDES
TRIVANDRUM, Wednesday.
THE 22nd All-India Educational Conference concluded its session yesterday after adopting a number of resolutions. The Conference reiterated its opinion that the total cost of primary education should be borne by the State. In the Secondary Education section, the conference was of the opinion, that greater attention should be paid to boys at the adolescent stage, and that as a first step toward proper canalising of their creative energies, fine art should be given a prominent place in schools. The conference held that books which fostered hatred of another language, literature and art were a source of danger to international peace and should be banned. It recommended the introduction of Asiatic and European languages and literatures in post-graduate classes. In the childhood and home education section, the conference urged on the Government of India the adoption of an All-India nursery school education policy and programme, open child guidance clinics and organise psychological services for schools.—API.

London Times On Attlee's Burma Statement
LONDON, Wednesday.
Expressing the view that Prime Minister Attlee's statement of December 2, came just in time to avert a constitutional crisis, which might easily have entailed a breakdown of administration in Burma, 'The Times' says that although there have been no elections in Burma, to test the representative character of the Executive Council, there can be little doubt that the weight of Burmese opinion is behind the demands put forward by the Executive Council for immediate action by the British Government. "There are some elements which go much further claiming that a 'war of independence' must be fought against 'British Imperialism' and though these are not numerous, their access to arms and ammunition now so plentiful, as a result of Japanese occupation, makes them a potential menace to public peace," 'The Times' continues. "From the Burmese point of view the great merit of the Prime Minister's statement is its declaration of British intention to treat Burma like India and it is significant that U Aung San is visiting Delhi on his way to this country to find out exactly how the Interim Government works in India. "He has reason to be thankful that Burma has no communal problem of the kind that afflicts India and he will be less inclined to risk creating one by any attempt to treat the frontier areas high-handedly. "If the Burmese leaders can be convinced that Britain has no intention of perpetuating her control of these backward tracts, but is anxious only to ensure without doubt that their inhabitants will be fully protected until they can safeguard their own interests, it may not be difficult to lay the foundations of united Burma. "U Aung San is bringing to this country a strong and experienced team of Burmese statesmen, each member of which has given proof of energy and capacity in the administration, and the long-standing friendship between Britain and Burma should be reinforced by the approaching consultations," 'The Times' concludes.—Reuter.

New Constitution For Travancore Nearly Complete
TRIVANDRUM, Wednesday.
THE draft of a new constitution based on adult franchise, as already announced, is nearly complete, it is learned. Both the legislature and the executive whose functions have already been outlined will consist of wholly elected members. In pursuance of the announcement already made by the Dewan, Sir C. P. Ramaswamy Aiyar, this draft will be published shortly and consultations will be held before the new constitution is promulgated. After promulgation, franchise and elimination committees will be appointed and steps will be taken for the compilation of electoral lists in order to implement the scheme of adult franchise.—API.
